the nose knows: all hail Ellie D!

Ellie D Perfumes, inspired by concocting handmade floral potions in a backyard and a scent savvy grandmother, Jessica Dunne has created something truly special with her line of fragrance, Ellie D.

I recently has the opportunity to try both of her scents, Ellie and Ellie Nuit -- and I have nothing but praises for both Jessica and her perfumer, Michel Roudnitska -- Michel did an excellent job of transforming Jessica's story into a gorgeous bottled memory for all of us.

Ellie Nuit certainly has made an impression on me -- I am quite partial to scents with black currant involved -- and Ellie Nuit fits the bill. I love the dry down -- the scent story is complex and varied. Every time I checked my wrist, it seemed that I was in a new chapter! I find that this scent is perfect for a special night out. Ellie Nuit is a flawless companion to the LBD. I've found that layering Ellie and Ellie Nuit creates an extraordinary effect as well.

Check out both Ellie and Ellie Nuit at Jessica's website, and to purchase visit luckyscent or Henri Bendel stores. (what's more, Jessica donates a portion of every sale to Kiva, a micro-loan company empowering those in developing countries. absolutely perfect.)
