» Neo Classic
 Ellie Parfum, a recent concoction by art-world refugee Jessica Dunne and veteran French perfumer Michel Roudnitska, blends jasmine and gardenia with vetiver. Its boxy bottle winks at Chanel No. 5, but the fragrance is lighter and sportier. » $180 at Scent Bar, L.A., 323-782-8300.

» Knickers with a Twist
 Feign innocence in white eyelet cotton. The "Marie" lingerie set is part of Agent Provocateur's new bridal collection. » Bra, $155, and panties, $95, at Agent Provocateur, L.A., 323-653-0229.

» Tainted Love
 Artist Robert Indiana's 1964 "Love" design, originally created for a Christmas card, was never copyrighted. Hence Alex & Chloe's acrylic riff in its new "Black Diamonds" collection. » $52 at alexandchloe.com.

» Cozy Beautiful

If it weren't so sexy to wear, you'd want to curl up and take a nap on it. Koi Suwannagate's dress is a collage of two-ply cashmere. » $2,760 at Barneys New York, Beverly Hills, 310-276-4400.

» Boom Bag
 Such '80s throwbacks as geometric hairdos and shoulder pads should be revisited with caution. A less risky form of stylistic nostalgia is Paul Smith's "Ghetto Blaster" canvas bag. » $455 at Paul Smith, L.A., 323-951-4800.

» The Earl of Bath
 If it's good enough for Charles and Camilla, it's good enough for your valentine. Penhaligon's, the British toiletries purveyor to royalty, makes these "Bluebell" soaps, which are redolent of hyacinth. » $35 for a box of three at Penhaligon's, Fred Segal, Santa Monica, 310-319-3454.

» Victorian Victor
 Edwardian silhouettes and motifs have inspired fashion houses for decades. Prada has the final word with this prim yet risqué ankle boot. » $720 at Saks Fifth Avenue, Beverly Hills, 310-275-4211.
